

Winding warp onto Carol's style sprang frame

I like to turn my frame sideways, because I feel it's easier to reach side to side than reaching up and down, particularly for longer warps.

1. Attach the yarn to the rod at the bottom of your frame, that is, to the rod at your left. Bring the yarn to the right, passing behind the rod at the top of the frame.

This frame has 3 eyelets on each end of the frame. Use eyelets B & C for warping.

2. Bring the yarn to the left passing in front of the rod at your right and then pass behind the rod at the left

How to tie the knot?

Find the instructions on page 29 of Sprang Unsprung

3. Wind the yarn back and forth between the two rods always passing behind the rod and around to the front

4. End at the same side of the frame as where you started the bottom of the frame, at your left. Check your cross before you cut the yarn. Place a bead on the end after you cut, and before you tie the knot.

Remove the rod from eyelet C and slide through A & B to work sprang.
